SPEAKERS OUTLINE FIGHT ON SALOONS

Anti-Saloon League Has Field Day in Churches.

PROHIBITION NOW ABANDONED

Purpose of Organization is to Rally Friends to Support of Excise Bill Before Present Congress—National Superintendent Baker Principal Speaker at Two Meetings

The cause of temperance in the District of Columbia was given new impetus yesterday, when the Anti-Saloon League, represented by its leading officials, rallied the churches to its support.

For the first time prohibition in Washington as an immediate prospect was abandoned. It was not abandoned as a vision or as the ultimate trend. The Anti-Saloon League is willing to compromise. It is willing to advance step by step.

Therefore, the excise bill pending before Congress, prepared by Corporation Counsel E. H. Thomas, at the direction of the District Commissioners, was given hearty endorsement, and steps were taken to push the bill before the House of Representatives and the Senate. The campaign will not be lacking in vigor. Besides the support of the churches and people of the District, the Anti-Saloon League will carry the fight into the home districts of Congressmen and gain additional pressure there.

Meaning of the Bill. The new excise bill probably means the extinction of the saloon from these sections of the city where its presence is most offensive. It provides, in effect, that a saloon must gain the consent of the adjoining property holders every year at the time of the issuance of the license. The consent of the property owners of the complete block, facing four streets, and of those facing the saloon on the block opposite, must be obtained. It is legislation which is highly satisfactory to the temperance interests of Washington, and the Anti-Saloon League believes nothing more could be desired at the present time.

William H. Anderson is the acting legislative superintendent of the league in the District, and a committee composed of Rev. Donald C. MacLeod, of the First Presbyterian Church; Rev. S. H. Woodrow, of the First Congregational Church, and Rev. John W. R. Sumwalt, president of the Methodist Church, has been appointed to advise in the campaign.

"The divine method of dealing with evils is always in the fullness of time," said Rev. F. A. Baker, national superintendent of the league, with headquarters in Columbus, Ohio, in the First Congregational Church last evening.

In the realm of God's economy everything moves on schedule time. You cannot hope to force evolution, or to bring about great reforms prematurely.

"When we realize that the first organized fight against the liquor traffic occurred in this country a century ago, and that fourteen States were in the prohibition roll in the late '40's, we see that the struggle is long and hard, and that the end is not yet. But the mighty waters have broken through the mountain of obstruction and are rushing toward the sea. Nothing can stop their onward course."

The speaker gave a historical review of the prohibition movement in the United States.

Dr. Baker said that hitherto the Anti-Saloon League had not invaded the District of Columbia, because the impatience of the prohibitionists had defeated their own purpose. It was impossible to gain from Congress a prohibition statute for Washington. The Anti-Saloon League was willing to go forward inch by inch, and he believed the proposed excise law would prove a most significant and vital step forward.

Dr. Baker also spoke in the Dumbarton Avenue M. E. Church at the morning service. William H. Anderson, legislative superintendent, who has been appointed to represent the Anti-Saloon League in the District of Columbia, spoke at the Hamline M. E. Church at the morning service, and at the Eckington Presbyterian Church in the evening.

Besides these speakers, Rev. George W. Young, assistant general superintendent, was heard at the Marvin and Emory Methodist Episcopal churches South; Rev. Howard H. Russell, associate general superintendent, in the Ryland and Union Methodist Episcopal churches; Wayne B. Wheeler, superintendent of the Ohio League and attorney for the League, in the Sixth Presbyterian and Congress Heights Methodist Episcopal churches; Rev. Thomas M. Hare, superintendent of the West Virginia League, in the Epworth Methodist Episcopal Church South and Wilson Memorial Methodist Episcopal; Rev. Homer W. Tope, superintendent of the Philadelphia district, in St. Paul's Lutheran and Memorial United Brethren churches.

Subscriptions were taken by the speakers in support of the campaign in Washington.

The Prohibition Movement.

Margie S. Paulson, who in a few weeks will become superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of the District, spoke on the prohibition movement last evening in Calvary Methodist Episcopal Church South.

Speaking of the spread of the movement through the South, Mr. Paulson attacked the law which prohibited a resident or a State to engage in the liquor traffic, while at the same time an outsider was justified, under the provisions of the interstate commerce laws, in coming into that State and dealing in intoxicating liquors.

"This condition of affairs," he said, "seems to me to be unconstitutional."

Mr. Paulson took up the question of prohibition in the District, and explained the bill the Anti-Saloon League hopes to have passed by Congress.

Two Vigorous Addresses. Two of the more vigorous addresses yesterday were delivered in the Church of Our Father and Wesley Memorial M. E. Church at the morning services. Ernest Cherrington, editor of the national organ of the Anti-Saloon League, the American Issue, published in Chicago, spoke in the Church of Our Father. He dealt with both the philosophical and practical aspects of the problem. He said:

"Public sentiment is effective only when enforced. It cannot be manufactured, or, at least, when manufactured or artificially created it cannot be expected to achieve permanent results. It must have a solid basis of conviction and determination behind it. It must be based on reason, not on emotional hysteria."

"There has scarcely been seen in this country a sounder campaign of education than that prosecuted by the temperance interests. Results did not come quickly. Apathy apparently existed on every side. It was our aim to leave instinctive prejudices and vague antagonism with conviction. With the conviction came the determination to act. When the psychological moment came the Liquor forces were fairly swept off their feet. They could do nothing to stem the tide.

"We have worked for permanency. We know the sporadic emotional outburst is true worth, and we have worked, not for a party killing, but an ultimate good. We think we have accomplished this, so far as we have progressed. We do not think there will be any backsliding. We think it impossible for the liquor interests to retrieve the ground they have lost."

Summary of Advance.

Rev. J. W. Cool, assistant superintendent of the league in New York, gave an address in Wesley Memorial M. E. Church at the morning service, summing up the temperance advance of 1908. He said:

"The most astounding fact in connection with the splendid temperance crusade is that one-half of the United States, approximately, is now under local option law. That means prohibition. Early last year we had one-third of the national population under prohibition; now we have practically one-half. It is an achievement that the most ardent of our leaders could scarcely have hoped for."

"It is not my purpose to venture prophecies. I do not know whether 1909 will carry on their wine glasses at public banquets were pointed out by Dr. MacLeod as being significant of the great temperance wave which, he declared, was sweeping over the world."

Delay of Prohibition.

Declaring the time was not yet ripe for absolute prohibition in the District, and that it was not the intention of the Anti-Saloon League to put such a question before the people at the present time, Rev. Donald C. MacLeod, president of the District committee of the league and pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, yesterday afternoon preached a sermon at the Church of the Covenant on "The campaign against Intemperance."

The recent acts of President-elect Taft and the Emperor of Germany in turning down their wine glasses at public banquets were pointed out by Dr. MacLeod as being significant of the great temperance wave which, he declared, was sweeping over the world.

The American saloon, as an institution, he called a conspiracy against the home, the state, the church, and the country at large. He declared that while the Anti-Saloon League was working with the ultimate extinction of the liquor traffic in view, the saloon would be the object of the body's first attack.

Dr. MacLeod asserted that the saloon was the most harmful element in the liquor traffic, and also its most vital point. He declared it was for this reason that all of the league's forces would be directed against the saloon.

Dr. MacLeod believes it will be a matter of only a few years until the American saloon as an institution will be a thing of the past. The league then will direct its attacks at other points.

TAKES MEASURE OF MAN.

Rev. Dr. Sewall Continues Course on Christian Economics.

In the second lecture of his course on "Christian Economics," Rev. Dr. Frank Sewall, at the New Church, last night, took for his subject, "The measure of a man," as applied to nature and society. He contrasted the forms of civilization as impressed upon the mass from without, and that form which comes from the force of a divine or creative ideal. The latter, he declared, are life and growth, while the former is simply a mistaken effort of much reformatory legislation—the putting a mold upon clay. Instead of inspiring by religion and education a growth from within.

Man, as compared with nature, Dr. Sewall declared, is a social animal. Unlike the lower creatures, which depend only on their material environments, man depends on the entire environment, not only of nature, but of the social world.

Dr. Sewall said man could not live in utter isolation, that his various gifts and employments, each working in harmony with the other, were absolutely necessary. He gave illustrations to back up his arguments.

GARRISONS REACH PEACE AGREEMENT

Breach Closed in Army and Navy Union Ranks.

EXECUTIVE BODY IS FORMED

Meeting at Home of Capt. S. Walter Mitchell is Harmonious—Settlement of Long Fight Now Reached—New Rules Proposed and Will Be Acted Upon at the Next Session.

After eighteen months of dissension in the ranks of the Army and Navy Union, the breach was closed at a meeting yesterday afternoon at the home of Capt. J. Walter Mitchell, in Randle Highlands, for the formation of an executive body, and for which the name was chosen of "The Council of Administration for the District of Columbia of the Army and Navy Union."

The result of the meeting was a victory for the Washington garrison, which were suspended a year and a half ago for refusing to recognize R. C. Galbraith as department commander for the District, although he had been appointed to that position by National Commander Edwin J. Browne, of Baltimore.

Col. Chase President.

Col. Benjamin F. Chase, of Barry Garrison, No. 28, one of the suspended garrisons, was elected president of the council of administration, having been previously endorsed for the place by a mass meeting of the garrisons. As president of the council, he will have greater powers than those that went with the office of department commander.

Dr. Charles V. Pettys, of Porter Garrison, another of the insurgents, was elected vice president of the council. George L. Snider, of Roosevelt Garrison, another body deprived of its charter, was elected secretary-treasurer of the council, and N. W. Tryon, of President's Own Garrison, was chosen sergeant-at-arms.

It was decided to limit membership in the council to garrison commanders, national officers, who are members of local garrisons, and not more than two members of Washington garrisons, to be elected by unanimous vote of the council.

New Rules Submitted.

Rules for the government of the council were submitted to a committee, with instructions to report on them at the next meeting of the council, to be held January 21, in Schmidt's Hall, 614 Ninth street northwest. This committee consisted of Capt. Mitchell, chairman; George L. Snider, and N. W. Tryon. Capt. Mitchell was prominently mentioned for office in the council, but declined to have his name used on account of other work.

The action of yesterday's meeting will be referred to National Commander Browne, in Baltimore. His endorsement is assured, in view of the fact that he had already expressed approval of the plan to vest the administrative power of the District department in an executive council.

Col. Chase is a veteran of the civil war, in which he served in the Thirty-first Illinois Volunteers. He was born in New York State sixty-two years ago. At present he is chief of staff to Col. John S. Walker, department commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, and vice president of the board of managers of the Soldiers and Sailors' Temporary Home. In the G. A. R. he has held nearly every office, with the exception of department commander, with one term as senior vice commander. He is a member of Lincoln Post, No. 3, G. A. R.

Sensational Incident.

Much interest was aroused at the opening of hostilities between the four Washington garrisons and the national body, and a sensational incident occurred when National Commander Browne, with his staff, came to this city from Baltimore and tore the charter off the wall at the headquarters of one of the offending garrisons.

Soon after the order suspending the insurgents, the four garrisons appointed an executive committee, numbering twelve men in all, to attempt to straighten out the situation.

A mass meeting of the four garrisons was held about six months ago, at which Capt. Mitchell suggested a smaller committee, to consist of three men all told, Henry Garrison having in the meantime made its peace with the national body.

This committee was composed of George L. Snider, for Roosevelt Garrison; Capt. Mitchell, for Barry Garrison, and Dr. Charles V. Pettys, for Porter Garrison. The members of the committee were appointed aids to National Commander Browne, the charters were restored, and for a time it looked as if harmony were on its way.

A mass meeting of all the garrisons in the District had recommended Col. Chase as department commander, to succeed Department Commander Galbraith. A conference was held at the Hotel Regent, Monday last, attended by National Commander Browne and J. E. Bonner, national adjutant, together with the national aids in the District and the garrison commanders.

Plan Is Approved.

At this conference the plan of vesting the government of the department of the District in a council headed by a president was projected. The plan met with the approval of Commander Browne. Capt. Mitchell invited the tentative council to meet at his home yesterday, with the result already told.

Those present were: Dr. Charles V. Pettys, national aid and commander-elect of Porter Garrison; Capt. N. W. Tryon, national aid; Capt. J. C. Jorgensen, national aid and commander of President's Own Garrison; Capt. Mitchell, national aid and member of Barry Garrison; George L. Snider, national aid and member of Roosevelt Garrison; George R. Garnett, national aid and commander of Guy V. Henry Garrison; A. F. Broecker, commander of Roosevelt Garrison, and Charles W. Blesh, commander of David D. Porter Garrison.

Absent members of the council were Charles Wilder, commander of Barry Garrison, and Daniel Slattery, national aid.

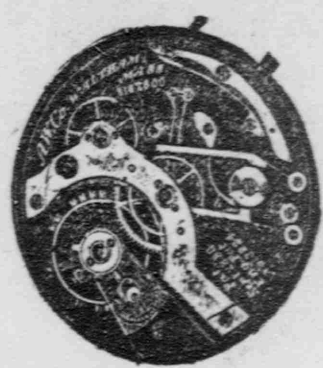

Postal Instruction for Children.

Postmasters have been directed by their local school authorities with the view of adopting the most effective method of instructing school children as to the organization and operations of the postal service. Postmasters should arrange, if possible, to deliver personal talks to the pupils on these subjects and should give teachers access to the Postal Guide and the postal laws and regulations, and render them every assistance in securing necessary information, the circular says.

VISITED UPON SINNERS.

Rev. Dr. Spooner Says Earthquakes Make for Better People.

Rev. A. W. Spooner, of the Sixth Presbyterian Church, used as the subject of his sermon last evening, "Was the Italian earthquake a Divine judgment?"

He spoke on the San Francisco earthquake, which he gave as an example of what had been taken by many persons as a message from God, who, by destroying the most wicked city in the country, would prompt the inhabitants of other sections to lead a better and less sinful life.

The Johnstown disaster was another example. After all the damage had been done, it was found the course of the Conemaugh River had been changed so as to run directly down the center of the only street in the town that was lined with saloons, gambling dens, and other places of sin.

He said: "If God did this thing it was not for the purpose of causing pain and suffering, but to teach the lesson which would result in larger good to unnumbered generations yet unborn."
